Connecting People with the Assistance They Need

Aging and Disability Resource Center of Dane County

CONNECTING PEOPLE WITH THE ASSISTANCE THEY NEED

Looking for help with housekeeping, bathing, yard work, transportation or housing?

Need help with caring for an elderly parent?

Want to continue to live independently in your own home?

Wondering if an assisted living facility is the right option for you?

Need assistance applying for public benefits?

Have concerns about your or a loved one's memory?

Wondering about your options when you transition from high school?

The Aging and Disability Resource Center (ADRC) of Dane County helps older adults and people with disabilities — along with their families and caregivers— connect with the resources and services they need to live as safely and independently as possible.

- ⇒ Our staff will help you identify and understand your long and short-term care options. We will provide in-depth information about private-pay services and resources available to meet your current and future needs.
- ⇒ The ADRC is the entry point for publicly-funded programs that help pay for long-term care. Based on your eligibility, our staff will complete assessments, make referrals and/or enrollments into long-term care programs.
- ⇒ Our Benefit Specialists explain how to apply for publically-funded benefits and help you cut through the “red tape” when applying for Medicare and Social Security.
- ⇒ Our High School Transition Team provides assistance to students with disabilities and their families as they prepare for life after high school.
- ⇒ We can connect with prevention programs to help you stay healthy, avoid injury and retain your independence.

About the Aging and Disability Resource Center

Dane County's Aging and Disability Resource Center (ADRC) is here for all Dane County residents to use, regardless of income or personal resources. Our services are funded by the State of Wisconsin.

The ADRC empowers people to make informed choices about services and supports. When you call the ADRC you will receive accurate, unbiased information related to aging or living with a disability. The expert staff can meet with you at the ADRC, in your own home, or at another location that is convenient for you.
