

Dr. Autumn Behringer

Courses Taught: Introduction to Sociology, Social Problems, Sociology of Gender

After taking my first sociology course at Miami University, I fell in love with the discipline. After graduating with my Bachelor's degree, I attended Purdue University where I earned my M.S. and Ph.D. in Sociology. Although most areas of society interest me, my areas of concentration are gender, intimate relationships, family, social inequality, social psychology, and criminology. After completing graduate school I spent some time working at other universities, but my ultimate goal was to return to Wisconsin and work and live in Madison. I joined the Madison College Sociology Department in 2012 and I am so pleased to be a part of this institution. Teaching is my passion and I love the courses I teach, the students I teach, and all the support teachers receive here. When not teaching, I enjoy spending time with my family, being outdoors as much as I can, completing (or struggling to complete) crossword puzzles, photographing everything around me, and sampling craft beers.
