Madison College Continues to Set Enrollment Records

Today is the first day of the spring semester at Madison Area Technical College and once again enrollments are up, especially at the West and South campuses.

“Spring first day enrollments at Madison College continue to set records,” says Terry Webb, vice president for learner success. “Enrollments continue to be strong in college transfer programming, health care, information technology, applied arts, biotechnology, and protective services careers.”

Here’s a closer look at the numbers:

- The West campus had a 94 percent enrollment increase compared to last spring (more than 700 new students)
- The South campus had a 26 percent jump in enrollment
- More than 3,750 students are enrolled in online classes—a 10 percent jump compared to last spring
- Arts and Sciences added 315 students—up 3.5 percent
- Human and Protective Services added 128 students—up more than 16 percent
- Enrollment for students age 23-29 is up nearly 3 percent (117 students) to 4,084
- Enrollment for students age 30-39 is up nearly 6 percent (141 students) to 2,541
- Enrollment for students age 40-49 is up nearly 4 percent (52 students) to 1,429
